*Although tea was discovered in China nearly five thousand years ago, it took several thousand years before the plant, Camellia Sinensis, found its way to other parts of the world. Tea is grown from China to Argentina, Nepal to South Africa, and, next to water, tea is the world's most consumed drink.*

China Teas

Lapsang Souchong: smokey aroma and taste

Earl Grey: unsteamed with added Bergamot oil

Jasmine: oil from the Jasmine flower is added

Indian Teas

Darjeeling: fruity and delicious with pastries

Assam: full bodied, better drunk with a little milk

Ceylon Tea

A strong infusion with a natural simple taste

English Breakfast Tea:

A traditional blend to satisfy all palates throughout the day

*Peppermint, Fresh mint,
Camomile and Fruit Teas also available*
